

Pre-Screened Data

Prepare for more business

As the number of failing businesses increases every year, finding stable, profitable business prospects is more of a challenge than ever before. Marketing to high-risk businesses reduces the ROI of your marketing campaigns, reduces conversion and exposes your business to unnecessary risk and bad debt.

Pre-Screened Data from Experian™ is a highly effective suppression service that roots out commercially unstable targets from your new business prospect list.

Linked to the National Business Database (NBD), which holds 5.1 million business records, Pre-Screened Data from Experian screens records to indicate whether a business is high risk for failure.

This invaluable service utilises Experian's market leading scorecard to predetermine passed business records.
