

Happy Employees, Happy HR Team

Empower your employees to share their employment data in seconds with Work Report™

Today's pressure on household budgets, means your employees financial situations could change quickly, meaning they may need to access credit or services fast.

But re-mortgaging, financing a car or taking out credit requires income and employment information, locating this information can be stressful and time consuming for employees, and a drain on your HR resource when they come to you for help.

There is a better way. Experian has launched Work Report™ a simple way for employees to access, review and share their payslip data directly from your payroll database in seconds.

It's an innovation that can save your payroll and HR functions hours of time and resource, and can speed up the process of, for example, buying a house.

Save time and resource

With no payslips to manually collect, proof of employment and payslip requests are drastically reduced, freeing up valuable HR and Payroll time

Attract new employees and build a loyal workforce

With more financially empowered employees, they are happier, more productive and feel supported at work.

Support your employees to meet their financial goals

Because your employees can complete applications at any time, day or night, they can access fairer credit or services, when they need it most.
